RE: EWP CONTROLS - Guidance Note from September 2012 - REMINDER

About a year ago there were some major concerns from a number of sites regarding the issue of correctly designed controller box guards.

With the support of the supplier and manufacture members this problem was identified and solutions put in place. This covered off the identified hazard of no effective protection against inadvertent/accidental operation of the joy-stick.

It appears that there are still a number of EWPs that have yet to have this hazard fixed. Could all rental fleet and end user owners ensure their EWPs have eliminated this issue. If you are aware of EWP owners with this problem please forward this reminder to them or let them know they can phone me for confirmation.

Further information and how the manufacturers can help is available on the EWPA Webpage under Resources, or click here. Please find attached the original Guidance Note from September 2012 as a reminder.
